CHALLENGES NRA
DEMAND OF CODE*While Head of Postal,
Its Rival, Supports
Such Proposal

Washington, April 2.—(AP)—The President of Western Union today challenged NRA's right to produce a code for the telegraph communications industry, while a representative of Postal advocated this action in the "interests of the public."

R. B. White, Western Union President, contended at an NRA hearing for formation of a code that his company would not benefit from the proposal. He added, however, that "we are here to cooperate under the law."

Howard L. Kern, representing the Postal Telegraph Company, attacked trade practices in the industry, saying they were "adversely and injuriously affecting the interests of the public, of the companies themselves and of their employees."

Would Cut Hours
Kern said a code should be put into effect reducing the hours of work from 48 to 40.

This he added, would bring increased employment to 4,000 or 5,000.

However, he said it would not be possible to increase wages and reduce hours unless the industry was relieved of excessive financial waste which he attributed "to unsound and discriminatory competition."

He urged that a control by the code authority of the telegraph industry be established over leased line facilities.

"The American Telephone & Telegraph Company," he said, "has been extending its leased wire service with a liberality which has a disastrous and discriminatory effect upon companies rendering a general public telegraph service."

Exclusive Contracts
He also demanded cancellation of all exclusive contracts, saying they were definitely against public policy. He specified Western Union contracts with the railroads and Radio Corporation of America contracts with foreign governments.

As for the latter, he pointed out that under the present law the cable companies are not allowed to make such contracts abroad.

White told NRA officials that Postal and Western Union for code purposes are substantially all there is to the telegraph industry and that the cable companies and RCA Communications, Inc., are not substantially affected because of their small number of employees.

Competition Grows
He said Western Union has roughly three quarters of the domestic telegraph business; that Postal's competition has existed since 1883; that under the policy of conflict this competition must continue and the companies may not merge as railroads and telephone concerns are allowed to do.

"So far as we are aware," he said, "our company has engaged in no unfair competitive practices, and we have no complaint of that nature to make against the Postal company."

The Western Union official outlined the method by which his company had dealt with employees for 15 years, with arrangement for arbitration, which he said never had to be used because all disputes had been adjusted satisfactorily.

Last July, he said, the company restored some of the depression cut pay and later it restored some previously cancelled vacation time.

Employees again are demanding further increases, he said, and negotiations will begin April 9.

He said he hoped it would be possible to grant the increases.

MRS. HENRY J.
SCHMIDT TAKEN
VERY SUDDENLY*Passed Away on Sabbath While Visiting Her Sister

Mrs. Henry J. Schmidt, nee Amelia Drake, passed away at 1:15 P. M. Sunday, while visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ben Ryan, 1107 So. Peoria Avenue.

Mrs. Schmidt had been in failing health for the past several months.

She was born in Marion township September 18, 1879, and was married to Henry J. Schmidt, January 21, 1909. She is survived by her husband, and the following children, Raymond, Mrs. Ethel Buchner, Marion and Dorothy, all of Dixon, two sisters, Mrs. Pauline Wyatt of Riverside, Calif., and Mrs. Charles Ryan of Chicago, and four brothers, Fred, Henry and Charles of Chicago, and Will of Crockett, California, together with three grandchildren, and other relatives, and a host of friends who mourn her passing.

Funeral services will be conducted from her late home 522 North Dement Avenue, Tuesday, April 3 at 2:30 P. M., Rev. Lloyd W. Walter of St. Paul's Lutheran church conducting the services, with interment at Oakwood Cemetery.

KIDNAPER LOST
NERVE: GEORGIA
GIRL RELEASED*Freed Before Ransom Note Reached Her Father

Valdosta, Ga., April 2.—(AP)—Miss Mary Nell Carlisle, 17-year-old daughter of a Valdosta plant shipper, is safe at home today because the man who kidnapped her lost his nerve.

Miss Carlisle was kidnapped Saturday night as she went to her garage to get a car. Shortly afterwards, her father, J. G. Carlisle, received a note demanding $1,000 ransom.

Sunday morning around 1 o'clock members of the Carlisle family heard her calling for help and found her bound on the campus of the Georgia State Woman's College nearby.

She said she was taken by a man to a house after riding in a car for some time. At the house, she said, a woman refused to let the man come in with her.

The woman said she would shoot him "unless you carry that girl back where she belongs," Miss Carlisle reported. The man took her back to the car and she said she did not remember anything else until she became conscious later and found herself on the college campus.

Former Officials of Cleveland Bank
Indicted this Morn

Cleveland, O., Apr. 2.—(AP)—Kenyon V. Painter, former director and largest stockholder of the closed Union Trust Co., and Wilbur M. Baldwin, former president of the bank, were indicted today by a county grand jury on charges of misapplying bank funds and abstracting collateral posted as part security for $3,000,000 in bank loans.

Last week indictments were returned by a federal grand jury against three former officials of the Guardian Trust Co., the other large Cleveland bank which was unable to resume operations following the banking holiday a year ago.

The true bills naming Painter and Baldwin were the first to be returned in connection with the Union Trust closing.

Blind Veterans to Receive Aid First

Washington, April 2.—(AP)—Blind veterans will be among the first to benefit from congressional restoration of adjusted compensation certificates if present plans of the Veterans Administration materialize.

The administration said this morning it was considering return of certificates to groups which now receive little or no compensation and appear to be approaching want.

The blind group was cited as one of these. Work of the Veterans' Appeals Board was expected to be reduced but the administration said the extent of the reduction could not be determined for some time.

Lincoln, Ill., Apr. 2.—(AP)—Their secret marriage disclosed by their deaths, plans were made for the burial together of two of six victims of a river tragedy near here.

The two—Mildred Wurth and Fred McGowan—both of Lincoln—were married Aug. 3, in Edwardsville, Ill.

Meanwhile Coroner Al Ahrends of Logan county announced today that a single inquest would be held for the six who drowned at midnight Saturday while enroute from a country dance, when their automobile plunged through the side of a wooden bridge into Salt Creek 15 feet below.

SEEK KILLERS OF SIX IN SUMMER
HOME LAST WEEK*Tragedy in Washington Discovered Late
on Saturday

Bremerton, Wash., April 2.—(AP)—By an underworld round-up police strove today to capture killers who slaughtered six persons attending a gay party in a summer home.

Three men were in custody and were questioned for hours, but police said none of them was suspected of being the maddened slayers who stabbed, beat and shot the six victims to death after binding them.

The topsy-turvy condition of the house and the absence of two diamond rings belonging to Mrs. Frank Flieder, hostess at the party, led investigators to adopt robbery as the most plausible theory for the crime.

When police broke into the home late Saturday they found the place a shambles. In various parts of the house they found the bodies of:

List of Victims

Frank Flieder, 45, owner of the home.

Mrs. Anna Taylor Flieder, 50, his wife.

Eugene Chenevert, 38, better known as Bert Vincent, the "singing bartender" and former vaudeville player.

Mrs. Peggy Chenevert, 30, his wife.

Magnus Jordan, 50, retired Navy man and caretaker of summer home.

Fred Balcom, bartender at a Bremerton beer parlor.

All of the victims had been beaten with a blackjack and a hammer. Some of them had been shot. The throats of both Mrs. Flieder and Balcom had been slashed. Flieder's jaw was broken, his head had been hammered eleven times, and a knife thrust in the back of his neck.

Evidence of Fight

Evidence indicated all had been first tied up or had their mouths and eyes taped. Luke S. May, Seattle criminologist, said Chenevert, Flieder and Balcom, apparently made a desperate fight for life.

Jerry Murphy, described as a card dealer, was one of the three taken into custody. The names of the others held were not disclosed.

The tragedy was discovered when a neighbor, Tom Sanders, noticed that three dogs had been left for hours in an automobile parked outside the house. He investigated and, looking through a window, saw two of the bodies.

BAR ASSN. AND NEWSPAPER JOIN
IN LEIBER CASE*Join in Asking State Supreme Court to Reverse Itself

Springfield, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—Attorneys for the Chicago Bar Association and the Chicago Times Publishing Company today filed intervening petitions in the Supreme Court asking that they might become parties to the motion made by Attorney General Otto Kerner and State Attorney Thomas Courtney seeking a rehearing of the Jack Leiber case.

The court had previously held that the Cook county method of selecting grand jurors was illegal with the consequence that the indictment and subsequent conviction of Leiber, sentenced in a minor robbery, was void.

Inasmuch as the ruling would apply to all other convictions in which the question was raised in the trial court law enforcement officials were fearful the court's decision would open the doors of the penitentiaries to scores of convicts.

Chief Justice Warren Orr granted a stay of mandate in the case pending the court's decision on whether it would grant the rehearing.

The petition filed on behalf of the Chicago Times Publishing Company was signed by 1500 Chicagoans who represented themselves as taxpayers.

STATE BUYS LAND

Springfield, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—Purchase of seven acres of land in Lincoln for the Lincoln state school and colony was announced today by Governor Horner.

The tract of land, including several buildings, will round out the land already owned by the state and includes a large railway frontage, the Governor said.

The buildings will be used to alleviate crowded conditions in the school for feeble-minded children, he said.

Others who were either killed or drowned were Mrs. Jesse Bechtel, 21, John Plut, 23, both of Lincoln; Robert Holzspfel, 26, Chicago, and Miss Juanita Adams, 20, Mattoon.

A second double service will be held Wednesday morning for Mrs. Bechtel and Miss Adams, burial of the latter to be made in Mattoon. Rites for Plut will be held tomorrow morning and for Holzspfel, Wednesday afternoon.

DILLINGER AND PAL SOUGHT IN
ST. PAUL AREA*Killer Thought to Have Shot Way Out of Capture on Saturday

BULLETIN
Minneapolis, April 2.—(AP)—The Minneapolis Journal said today a suspect in the spectacular bank robberies at Sioux Falls, S. D., and Mason City, Iowa—and not John Dillinger—was the machine gunner who shot his way out of a St. Paul apartment Saturday.

Justice agents indicated they believed the machine gunner was Dillinger, himself, and the second man with him was John Hamilton, Dillinger's "first lieutenant."

It was reported today, however, the Journal said, that another agency of the government had laid elaborate plans to raid the fashionable apartment Saturday night in search of a man who was wanted, among other things, for the Sioux Falls and Mason City robberies, and that the visit made by two department of justice agents and a lone St. Paul policeman was made without the knowledge of the other government agency.

It was said, the Journal added, that the other agency had prepared for several days to raid the apartment and had knowledge of the identity of the occupants and knew they were armed with machine guns.

St. Paul, April 2.—(AP)—The search for John Dillinger spread to the entire northwest today while the authorities guarded against a new sortie by the quick-triggered Indiana gunman.

Police are satisfied that his pal and chief lieutenant, John Hamilton, is still with him and they believe the pair plan to rob a bank in the northwest early this week.

A score of suspects were held for questioning today as a result of Saturday's shooting in which Dillinger and Hamilton, accompanied by a woman, fought their way out of an apartment when federal agents and a city detective went to the place on a tip.

Thick Woman Wounded
The woman was believed to have been wounded. Bloodstains were found in the snow.

Later Dillinger was reported seen near Duluth in northern Minnesota. A restaurant owner and a mechanic at Ekko's Corner, near Duluth, said they had talked to a man resembling Dillinger. The man was accompanied by a woman.

Federal agents refused to talk about the hunt for Dillinger, who escaped recently from the Crown Point, Ind., jail. Neither was any information available as to the suspects held, except that it was a general roundup.

Found Fingerprints
Identification of Dillinger as one of the occupants of the apartment here was reported to have been made through fingerprints. The gunmen left behind a sub-machine gun and other weapons, a photograph of Dillinger, a bullet-proof vest and an automobile.

Clyde May, City Commissioner of Public Utilities, called members of the St. Paul Real Estate Board and the Apartment Owners Association into conference today to discuss a proposed ordinance to keep a card index history, including fingerprints, of persons living in apartments.

"No law abiding citizen would object, I am sure," said May.

New York State to Have Permanent Milk
Control Commission

Albany, N. Y., April 2.—(AP)—After a year of stormy experimentation, New York state put into effect today a revised milk control system that is designed to be permanent.

A new Division of Milk Control took over the work of the emergency milk board. The emergency group created when the first milk strikes occurred at Rochester just a year ago, finished its work Saturday. All of its powers, plus a limited authority to control each farmer's milk output, were handed over to the new division.

Kenneth F. Fee, Director of Milk Control, immediately set to work today to study the need for changes in the board's price lists. The power to fix minimum prices is extended for another year only.

Two Amboy Women Suffer Injuries in Traffic Accident North of City
Saturday Evening; Both in Hospital

Miss Clara MacKinnon of Amboy is in the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg internal injuries and cuts and bruises sustained Saturday night about 10:30 when the car she was driving left the paving at the Yoder corner, two miles north of Dixon on State Route 26 and crashed down a ten foot embankment. Miss MacKinnon was pinned beneath the car. Miss Sarah Prytherick, also of Amboy, was a passenger, suffered a deep scalp wound and minor bruises. She is also a patient at the hospital.

Miss MacKinnon was coming to Dixon from Polo and as she neared the Yoder corner another car coming from the west, was reported to have failed to stop before coming onto the state highway. In an effort to prevent crashing into this car, Miss MacKinnon swerved her car and it left the paving crashing down the ten foot embankment and turned over.

John Madson of Polo was the first to reach the scene and took both young women to the Dixon hospital. Both were reported to be resting comfortably this morning. State Highway Officer Rex Flach of Amboy reached the scene shortly after the crash and had the damaged car removed to a local garage. The driver of the car who was directly responsible for the accident failed to stop.

Missed by Dillinger

Anthony Katwiv, 21, Dixon state hospital patient, committed to the institution from Peoria, May 17, 1927, died Saturday evening at 6 o'clock at the hospital ward, almost three hours after he had been dragged from a cooling tank in the institution dairy barn. He had been submerged in the tank for about two minutes and was saved from drowning by Harrison Walters, dairyman, formerly of Amboy, but the shock resulted in his sudden death.

Gatwis, an epileptic patient at the institution, had for several weeks been one of the detail of helpers at the dairy barn. His duty consisted of taking the pails of milk after being weighed and dumping them into cans.

According to Walters, who prevented Gatwis from being drowned and by means of artificial respiration restored him by forcing water out of his lungs, the patient was about his duties as usual Saturday afternoon. About 3:30 he missed Gatwis and immediately started to search for him. Stopping at the cooling room, where is located a long cement tank containing cold water into which the cans of milk are set to be cooled, he observed Gatwis's hat floating on the surface, and upon closer inspection, discovered one foot sticking out of a corner of the tank. He hurriedly pulled the patient from the tank, sounded an alarm and began applying artificial respiration. Gatwis responded to the respiration action and revived, after which he was removed to the hospital ward.

FATAL FALL OF ARMY PLANE IN IOWA MYSTERY*Investigation Reveals
it "Just Couldn't Have Happened"

BULLETIN
Clinton, Ia., April 2.—(AP)—Lieut. Thomas A. Wood, Army mail pilot, who crashed to his death near here Friday night, had intended to resign from the Army service.

In the pocket of his flying suit was found his resignation effective April 1.

Wood's ship fell during a storm as he was flying the mail from Omaha to Chicago.

Chicago, April 2.—(AP)—Col. Horace M. Hickman, Central Zone Commandant of the Army air mail, said today the crash which killed Pilot Herman A. Wood near DeWitt, Ia., last week appeared to be "an unsolvable mystery."

The Commandant said he had received full reports from investigators sent to the scene. He said inquiries had shown the plane's motor was running at the time of the crash and that there was no evidence of structural failure.

"From the evidence it seems that the crash just couldn't have happened," Hickman said. "Wood had left on his run with orders to turn back if the weather became bad or if poor visibility made flying dangerous."

"Approaching DeWitt, the plane cleared a row of trees about 70 feet high. A short time later he crashed, the plane apparently dropping straight downward. Strapped off all, he crashed on the reverse side of a hill on ground that sloped in the direction of his flight."

Col. Hickman said Wood's medical history had been traced, and that the pilot had not suffered from heart disease or fainting attacks.

Pope Walled Up
Holy Door Today

Vatican City, Apr. 2.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, wearing an apron and wielding a trowel of gold, walled up the Holy Door to St. Peter's this morning in a ceremony attended by a score of Cardinals, dignitaries, hundreds of prelates and an estimated 50,000 faithful. It thus closed the holy year which has brought 1,200,000 pilgrims to the Eternal City. The door will be opened again in 1950.

Proclaimed to celebrate the nineteen hundredth anniversary of the passion, death and resurrection of Christ, the holy year began April 2, 1933, when the Pontiff opened the Holy Door with a golden hammer.

The prickly pear, which is a curse in Australia, is being fought by means of insects imported from Texas. These have already cleared several thousand acres.

Tonic Treatment For Oily Hair

By ALICE HART
Excessively oily hair does not lend itself well to a permanent wave.

But if yours is an oily head, do not despair. With the right tonic and lots of home treatment, the hair can be overcome. The anti-oil campaign should be carried on for five or six weeks before taking the permanent.

Get a tonic that is prepared especially for oily hair and apply it every night. Parting the hair into tiny sections, dipping a cotton pad in the astringent preparation and then rubbing the scalp with it is the best and easiest method. When the entire scalp has been moistened with the tonic, briskly rub the head with a clean towel to remove loose dust and excess oil. Then begin brushing.

Place your hair brush flat against the scalp as you begin each stroke, and as you move the brush, turn it slightly outward so that every hair will be pulled through the bristles. Wipe the brush frequently on a clean cloth and keep on brushing for at least ten minutes.
Don't shampoo oily hair too often. Nightly brushing and use of an astringent tonic will keep the hair and scalp clean and will help to close the pores that secrete too much natural oil.

To Repeat Play, St. James Church

The play, "The Little Clodhopper," sponsored by Mrs. C. W. Bremner's Sunday school class of the St. James church, and successful directed by Miss Roma Bremner, will be repeated this Friday evening, April 6, at eight o'clock, at the St. James church. This same play was given last week to a full house and it is hoped that it will be largely attended. A small admission will be charged at the door and the public is cordially invited.

Easter Egg Rolling at White House

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Stand clear and tread lightly. It's Easter egg rolling day at the White House.

It's the day when children rule the executive grounds, visit Mrs. Roosevelt, Sistine and Buzze, and clutter up the lawn to their hearts content with brightly colored eggs. All this provided it doesn't rain too hard. The weather man said it wouldn't.

With around 100,000 visitors in Washington for Easter, and the cherry blossoms not yet, thousands headed toward the White House.

By tradition, the day belongs chiefly to the toddlers, the three, four, five, and six-year-olds. In comparison, the Girl Scouts are quite mature young ladies, who are there to help the lost ones find their mothers and vice versa.

Catch It In
But there is a catch. One small child carrying an Easter basket, entitled any motherly or fatherly-looking adult to pass the gate. Bright little boys and girls for years have done a brisk business in adopting adults—for a small fee. The Marine Band plays. Girls from the balloon man piles his wares. Neighborhood House come in and dance on the lawn and organize games.

All watch the south portico for the moment when Mrs. Roosevelt, Sistine and Buzze may appear. Last year they went down twice and mingled with the crowd, once in the morning, once in the afternoon.

This year something a little different was arranged by Mrs. Roosevelt. Mechanical beasts, including lions, tigers and elephants were to be on hand to aid the Easter rabbit.

Pleasant Surprise For Mrs. John H. Miller on Sunday

Mrs. John H. Miller, of 738 East Second street, was tendered a pleasant surprise on her 24th birthday, Sunday, when relatives and friends brought well filled baskets for a picnic dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Drenner, parents of Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Roberts and children, George and Betty Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Pyfer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oyler and son, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bogott, all of Polo, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilde of Oregon.

At noon a delicious dinner was enjoyed, with two birthday cakes, each having twelve candles, these being baked by Mrs. Roberts, sister of Mrs. Miller. The afternoon was spent in taking pictures and visiting, and at a late hour the guests departed, wishing Mrs. Miller many more happy birthdays.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

How To Live Long
All of us want to live long. Or, if we cannot, our ambition is to aid our children in having long and happy lives. Thanks to the discoveries of physicians and scientists the average length of life today is much greater than it used to be.

Now we are informed that if we eat properly from birth to old age, at least 10 per cent can be added to the life of the average man. This is the discovery of Prof. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia University, who has tried it out on laboratory animals for many years and has demonstrated that an excellent diet will produce long life. Moreover, it will extend the happy, vigorous years of life farther into old age.

And what is the special diet that Dr. Sherman finds is necessary for long life?

Why, it is made up primarily of our old friends, milk, vegetables, fruits and cereals. Such a diet, we are informed, will improve the health of all of us, but if children are given adequate amounts from very early in life, it will not only give them good health but will lengthen their years.

Next week Dr. Ireland will tell when a child should return to school after illness.

Ethiopian Prince Not to Wed Daughter Japanese Count

Tokyo, April 2 (AP)—The projected picture-bride marriage of the Ethiopian Prince Lij Araya and Miss Masako Kuroda, daughter of Viscount Hiroki Kuroda, has been cancelled, and despite official denials of interference, very few newspapers surmised today that the match had run afoul of powerful forces of international politics.

The Addis-Ababa, Ethiopia, correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi reported that the Foreign Minister of Ethiopia had announced the marriage plans had been called off, quoting the prospective bridegroom to the effect that the machinations of "a certain power" had interfered.

The Foreign Minister, according to the correspondent, said he notified Ethiopia's Minister in Rome concerning the cancellation of the marriage plans for which the vernacular newspapers conjectured that Italy disliked the prospect of Japanese penetration in Ethiopia in view of Premier Mussolini's recent declaration of Italy's mission in Africa.

The family of Viscount Kuroda asserted that it was ignorant of cancellation of plans.

Miss Adaline Lahman Bride of Jas. L. Hay

Miss Adaline M. Lahman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lahman, living north of Franklin Grove, and James L. Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hay, also of that community, were united in marriage at the home of the bride Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The simple yet impressive marriage service was solemnized by Dr. Frank D. Sheets of Oregon, with the single ring ceremony. There were no attendants at the wedding. The immediate relatives were present.

The attractive bride wore for her wedding a charming gown of Alice Blue flat crepe, with grey accessories. She carried a spicy bouquet of pink and white carnations.

After the congratulations the bride's mother served light refreshments and the young couple then left on a short honeymoon trip. On their return they expect to make their home on the groom's father's farm in Nashua township, where they will be extended the best wishes of many, as both are progressive and popular young people who have hosts of friends.

UNEMPLOYMENT EXISTS EVEN IN GOOD TIMES.

During the last few years we have got into the habit of looking back on those dim pre-depression days as on a halcyon, never-never time in which the grass was always green, the sun always shone, and every story had a happy ending.

No depression then, no breadlines, no bank failures—at least not very many; it was a fine time, and we would all like to get back to it and go about sniffing the aroma of a chicken in every pot.

Once in a while, though, someone rises to remind us that those days weren't quite as paradisaical as memory persuades us they were. We had an unemployment problem even then, we had families that didn't know just where the next meal was coming from, we had discouragement and doubt and want; and these things were made worse by the fact that most of us pretended they didn't even exist.

Miss Helen Hall, famous leader of the Henry Street Settlement in New York, made some pointed remarks about this sort of thing the other day, before a House of Representatives sub-committee, in the hearings on the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill.

Away back in 1928, she pointed out, the settlement houses noticed the pressure of unemployment on their people. Men lost their jobs through no fault of their own—and, says Miss Hall, the jobless man faced "the smug impression on the part of the community that if he had been any good his factory would not have closed down or introduced new machinery or indulged in style or seasonal changes."

Yes, there was an unemployment problem, paid for in human suffering. The history of the jobless men's families, says Miss Hall, was "written on pawn tickets, on eviction notices, on foreclosures"; children went undernourished, and if a family applied for help it had a chance but no definite assurance, or getting it.

Now the point in raking up this ancient history is that we shall have the same thing to cope with even after the depression is over. The unemployment problem, like the poor, is always with us; we might remember it in connection with the unemployment insurance bill now pending in Congress.

"It is an old story now," says Miss Hall, "but unfortunately it is still a living one, and will continue to be so if the insecurity of men and women and children seems less important than a five per cent tax."

ONLY PART WAY.

The Vinson-Trammell navy bill, authorizing construction of 102 warships and 1140 airplanes for the United States navy during the next five years, is now a law, passed by Congress and signed by the president. But it is worth noticing that the law does not actually commit the country to immediate construction of these armaments.

As President Roosevelt pointed out in signing the bill, what we have here is simply a formal statement of policy. Congress and the executive have gone on record as favoring the building up of the navy to the strength authorized by the treaties to which the United States is a party.

However, the bill appropriates no money for this work. Not one keel will be laid down as a result of it. There is a vast difference between ships authorized and ships appropriated for. Until this bill is supplemented by an actual appropriation measure, it is a gesture and nothing more.

THE BOSS GOES ON.

When New York City voters booted Tammany Hall out of control last fall, it was taken for granted that a movement was beginning in the nation which would replace old-line political bosses everywhere with reform administrations. Apparently this supposition was a gross overestimate.

Kansas City, for instance, indulged in a hot campaign, held a somewhat riotous election—and Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss, still rules the roost. The Fusion ticket that was raised against him went down to a decisive defeat.

The fight against bossism in the United States has hardly more than begun. When an outfit like the Pendergast machine can win out over a well-financed and ably-led reform campaign, it is evident that the average citizen has not yet awakened to the importance of a housecleaning in municipal politics.

Sooner or later, if we continue in our present condition, the control of all business will rest with the American Federation of Labor.—Samuel Vaulain, business executive.

Women have been a very healthy influence in amateur sport, and I don't say that because I'm looking for any feminine votes.—Tommy Armour.

If we come to the point where the government can compel arbitration in labor disputes and forbid strikes, we are doing just what Hitler has done.—Dr. William A. Wirt.

"Hurray! We are sailing over the sea, and we are as happy as can be," sang Duncy, as weecy Scouty pulled him slowly to the shore.

"This bumbershoot is like a boat. Gee, I am glad the thing will float. I've had enough of swimming, so I don't want any more."

"The ant then added, 'Nor do I. I am glad I don't have to try to reach the shore by swimming. I would still be in mid-stream.'

"I think that Scouty was just grand to throw a rope, and lend a hand. The way that he has rescued us is almost like a dream."

"Well, stop your singing," Scouty cried. "Just pay attention to your ride and see that you don't tumble out until you are safe and sound."

"A wave is coming toward you now. It will wash you up on shore, somehow. You both can sing till you're tired out, when you are on dry ground."

"Then came the wave, and what a swell! The whole bunch heard wee-Duncy yell, "Look out. We have turned a somersault. We are just about to land."

The next thing that the Tines knew, poor Duncy, and the wee ant too, went plip upon the shore. The girls rushed up to lend a hand.

As Duncy stood up on his feet, he said, "That really was a treat. It gave me quite an appetite. When do we have some lunch?"

Old Nature Nick, who stood near, said, "Very shortly, lad, because I am hungry too. Just watch me, now. I have a happy hunch. He promptly clapped his hands in air, and then he shouted, 'Hey, look there!' A funny man appeared and shouted, 'I will produce a thrill.'

He shook the bumbershoot a bit and big doughnuts appeared in it. The man began to hand them out. He cried, "All eat your fill."

(The Tines see a real flower dance in the next story.)

Illinoisans in National Capital Get Into Spotlight

BY GERALD MILLER

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, April 2.—(AP)—

If so-called test votes in the House of President Roosevelt's power are to be considered any indication of party regularity, then the Democratic members from Illinois have swung violently to the left during the last 12 months.

A year ago Illinois representatives of that party supported Roosevelt on the economy bill 10 to 6. Last Tuesday they voted 12 to 4 against him.

Tuesday's vote on the President's veto of the Independent Offices bill saw several strange developments.

The most unusual of them was the departure of Representative D. C. Dobbins of Champaign, Ill., from the rapidly dwindling ranks of regulars.

Dobbins, who has supported every administration bill considered since he took office, turned his back on the White House and voted to override Roosevelt's veto.

By doing so, he left Representative Leo Kociaikowski of Chicago as Illinois' solitary regular.

The first significant "test vote" to face the Seventy-Third Congress was the famous economy bill. It slashed federal salaries and limited veterans' benefits.

Called up for passage March 11, 1933, the Illinois delegation voted 14 to 7 for it. The Democrats were divided 10 to 6 as follows:

For—Arnold, Dobbins, Gillespie, Kociaikowski, Major, Meeks, Parsons, Sabath, Thompson, and Rainey. Against—Beam, Keller, Kelley, Nesbit, O'Brien, Schuetz. Not voting were Adair and Schaefer.

The Republican members were divided: for—Allen, Britten, Moynihan, and Simpson. Against—Dirksen. Not voting—DePriest and Breen. (Buckbee was not yet sworn in.)

Last Tuesday when the House was called upon to undo some of the economies it had approved on that day in 1933 by overriding the presidential veto, the Illinois delegation stood 14 to 4 against the President.

Among the years were 12 Democrats: Adair, Arnold, Dobbins, Gillespie, Keller, Kelley, Meeks, Nesbit, Parsons, Schaefer, Schuetz and Thompson. The two Republicans were Britten and Moynihan.

Those Democrats who supported the President were Brennan, Kociaikowski, Sabath, and Rainey.

There were eight Illinoisans not voting: Republicans—Allen, Buckbee, DePriest, Dirksen, Reid and Simpson; Democrats—Beam and O'Brien.

The bonus bill, considered as another test vote when it came up

March 12, found the Illinois delegation 19 to 4 in favor.

Three of the four against, were Democrats: Dobbins, Kociaikowski, and Thompson; the Republican, Simpson.

The 19 were: Democrats—Adair, Arnold, Beam, Brennan, Gillespie, Keller, Kelley, Meeks, Nesbit, Parsons, O'Brien, Sabath, Schaefer, Schuetz; Republicans—Allen, Britten, Buckbee, DePriest, and Dirksen.

Three not voting were: Moynihan and Reid, both Republicans, and Rainey, a Democrat.

During the year Representative J. Earl Major of Hillsboro resigned.

STERILIZATION

It is hard to decide whether sterilization is primarily a social problem or a medical problem. Certainly sterilization involves both spheres.

These matters are very involved. Presumably, the social justification for sterilization lies in the protection thereby secured by the state against the reproduction of defective and socially undesirable individuals.

But which of an individual's objectionable qualities are hereditary in character and are transmitted genetically and which are the products of adverse environmental conditions is not always easy or possible to say.

Only a very few of these items are now so well defined that we can say with certainty that they are hereditary and that the offspring of those persons who suffer from such defects will be defective.

In England a government committee which has been studying the problem of sterilization recently rendered a report in which it strenuously opposed compulsory sterilization.

The committee did, however, recommend voluntary sterilization. It urges this for persons who are mentally defective or suffering from mental disorders; for persons who suffer from, or are believed to be a carrier of grave physical disabilities shown to be transmissible, and for persons who are believed to be likely to transmit mental diseases or defects.

Even so, it surrounds its recommendations with many safeguards, requiring the concurring judgment of several medical practitioners before a sterilizing operation may be performed.

The subject of sterilization has been long under discussion, but there is still much division of opinion. Twenty-seven states of the

"It took more than Luck to save my Life—it took a Safety-Steel Body"

IT HAPPENED on the Bakersfield highway. Billy Arnold was making time for Los Angeles. Road clear... rising curve ahead. Suddenly... but let him tell it in his own words:

"Suddenly another car swept round the curve... coming right at me... on the wrong side. I had my choice. A head-on crash... or the gully on the right. I took the gully."

"I wouldn't give a plugged nickel," says Arnold, "for my chances in any low-priced car but a Plymouth. Its Safety-Steel Body was undoubtedly the thing that saved my life."

1. "I've been what people call a 'hell-driver' for years. I've done all kinds of daredevil stunts—testing cars. I've even wrecked them on purpose. But this unexpected accident was by far the most hair-raising experience of my life!"

2. "There's where it happened. The diagram shows how my Plymouth smacked the side, bounced up in the air and rolled over five times!"

3. "I couldn't avoid it. I had only a split second to see what was happening. The other car was in my path. I swerved to save him. Down I plunged... turning over and over!"

Answers to Previous Questions

The Van Buren Street span over the Chicago river is the first rolling lift bridge. It cost $169,709 then, but has entailed much more in maintenance since. Westinghouse used his first air brake on a special train of the Panhandle Railroad, and won immediate success with it, although it required considerable improvement. His automatic brake came 15 years later.

M. E. MINISTER HURLED BIBLE ACROSS CHURCH

Maryland Congregation Got Unusual Shock Sunday Morning

Lansdown, Md., April 2—(AP)—The congregation of the little Methodist Episcopal church was startled in the middle of the Easter service when the minister hurled his Bible across the room.

"If the study of this book is going to hide the real Jesus from me, there goes my Bible," cried the Rev. Robert Wesley Hanford. Denouncing the fellow who says he is a "Bible student" he declared: "As I see it then, the Bible is not the Word of God. The Bible is men's interpretation of the Word of God. Anything reduced to words is imperfect, for language itself is imperfect...."

"I am fully conscious of the far reaching significance of the statement that the Bible is not the Word of God. It reaches into the very roots of all Protestantism."

Bible Was Gift
The congregation of eighty persons had settled in their seats when Rev. Mr. Hanford stepped into the pulpit. Flinging the gilded edges of the pages, he explained the Bible had been given his wife and him when they were married 12 years ago and they had read it together happily all those years.

"I love the truths which have come out of it (the Bible) and entered my heart and life," he said.

"As I look about me and see the institution we call the church," he said, "and the book we call the Bible used to restrict man's growth mentally, morally and spiritually, to create in him a prejudice against any new revelation of the truth, or to enslave human beings in any manner, shape or form, I feel like saying with all my heart, and, I believe, as Jesus would say, 'Cursed be the church and cursed be the Bible when used to enslave God's highest creation on earth, to enslave man, created in the image of God.'...."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH ITEMS

The hard rain yesterday morning did not dampen the enthusiasm of the Bible school. The Easter aims were exceeded. The attendance aim was 450 and there were 460 present. The offering to Home Missions was $92.00. The birthday money on hand will bring in well above the aim of $100. The adult classes made the following attendance records: Upstreamers, 67; Priobas, 55; True Blue, 37; Young Men, 46; Young People, 20. The Children's Department had 127.

The program given by the children was greatly enjoyed by everybody. The presence of several Cradle Roll mothers with their babies was greatly appreciated. The church was crowded at every service. The special Easter music was highly appreciated. Many compliments were passed upon the choir Easter cantata given at 4 o'clock. There were twenty additions during the day. Eight were baptized at the close of the evening service.

Regular monthly meeting of the church board tonight at 7:30. The Missionary Guild will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 with Mrs. M. C. Neer, 320 South Galena Ave. The young People's Circle will meet tonight at the home of Miss Mossholder, 316 East Second Street. All day meeting of the Ladies Aid Society on Wednesday.

The reception to the new members will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30. There will be a brief preaching service with a baptismal service and a fellowship service and social hour in the basement.

The Women's Missionary Society will hold their guest night meeting at the church at 7:30 Thursday evening.

Choir rehearsal Friday evening at 7:15.

Pre-Easter Revival Closed

The two weeks of special evangelistic meetings at the Christian church closed last night with a capacity crowd in attendance. Rev. James A. Barnett, the pastor, has been assisted by Miss Margaret Whitman of Frankfort, Ind., as soloist. Her excellent rendition of sacred solos has been at attractive feature of the meetings. There were twenty additions at yesterday's services, making thirty-six for the series. The pastor administered the ordinance of baptism to eight candidates at the close of last night's service.

A reception to the new members will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30. The pastor will preach a sermon after which there will be a baptismal service. A fellowship service and social hour will follow the preaching service. Everybody is welcome.

BRETHREN CHURCH

The members and friends of the Brethren church rejoiced yesterday as they worshipped and witnessed the spirits power in saving and directing lives. Large numbers gathered through the drenching rain until the largest number gathered for Sunday school in the history of the Dixon Brethren Church. The beautiful Easter lilies, flowers and plants graced the church with their beauty and fragrance. The Easter lilies were dedicated to the sacred memory of those who have passed to the Great Beyond. Nearly 100 testaments were given to the boys and girls. The Easter chorus sang two beautiful selections and the pastor spoke on the subject of "The Significance of the Empty Tomb." Six new members were received by letter and one by confession.

The "Story of the Cross" was rendered in a very splendid manner by the chorus last night to a full house.

Tuesday night the Bible Class will meet in the church parlors. All members and friends of the class are invited. A picnic supper will be served. A good program will be given.

Prayer and consecration service Wednesday night at 7:30. This will be visitors night and all those who are in the habit of attending are supposed to come and bring a visitor. The subject will be "Living a Christian Life in a Sinful World." The Ladies Aid will meet at the church Thursday afternoon, there will be work for all who may attend.

The Crusader's Sunday School Class will have their regular monthly class meeting at the church parlors Thursday night. A picnic supper will be served, and a delightful time is in store for all who may attend.

METHODIST NOTES

Monday—Boy Scouts under the leadership of Henry Hubbell and helpers.

Tuesday—Wesleyan Missionary Society will have a picnic supper at the church. A fine program has been arranged.

Tuesday—Boys Club meets at 7 o'clock under Don Lerdall.

Wednesday—Service of prayer and praise conducted by the pastor.

Thursday—The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. W. E. Whitson, 516 Highland Avenue at 2:30.

FRIDAY—Circle One of the Ladies Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Mary Loder, 218 Ottawa Ave. The program will include piano numbers by Mrs. George Bressert, violin numbers by Julie Auman, and readings by Miss Anna Miller of Amboy. The time of the meeting will be 2:30.

CONGRESS PAYS TRIBUTE TODAY TO SOUTHERNER

Adjourns After Session of Sorrow for Rep. Edw. Pau

Washington, April 2—(AP)—Congress is up to its ears in work and the end is not yet. President Roosevelt is expected to give the legislators more labor when he returns from his fishing trip. Democratic leaders understand he will ask for about $1,800,000,000 additional for the PWA.

There was no official business today, because of the death of Rep. Edward W. Pau of North Carolina, Dean of the House, but both branches will plunge into their tasks tomorrow. They are anxious to adjourn and get to their home-work in preparation for coming elections.

Democratic leaders plan to push for action on such important administration legislation as the revised sugar control and $330,000,000 revenue bills.

Besides acting on the sugar bill tomorrow, the House is to vote on the Johnson measure already adopted by the Senate. This would prevent defaulting war debtors from obtaining loans here. Action may be reached also on the Rankin resolution calling for an investigation of utility rates by the Power Commission.

The Senate will plunge into tax bill debate tomorrow with a view to a vote late in the week. The Senate Banking committee again planned to take up in private the highly contested stock market regulation bill.

Served 17 Terms
Pau, veteran of seventeen consecutive terms in the House died at his hotel apartment early yesterday of a heart attack after weeks of suffering from influenza. He was 70 years old.

Chairman of the powerful Rules committee, intimate friend of the late President Woodrow Wilson and of many leading statesmen of the last three decades, Pau received homage from his colleagues today. Vice President Garner and Speaker Rainey summoned the Senate and House into joint session for an impressive ceremony at 2 P. M.

Both branches planned to meet briefly at noon to provide for the special meeting and then recess until the services. The program called for the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, House chaplain, to offer prayer and Speaker Rainey and Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader and former chairman of the Rules committee, to make speeches.

CLOSEUP and COMEDY

Son Died in War
Burial will be at Smithfield, his boyhood home, next Tuesday. He will lie beside his son, Ensign Edward Smith Pau, Naval Aviator, killed in the World War.

A White House message accompanied by flowers was received by Mrs. Pau. Garner and Rainey were among the many notables who called personally to express condolences.

The new Dean of the House is Speaker Rainey himself. The death yesterday of Rep. Pau has placed Rainey who has served fifteen terms, as the oldest member in point of service.

Rainey and Garner were elected to the House in 1902 along with the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth. Rainey was defeated in the Harding landslide of 1920 and his service therefore is not consecutive.

BALLET Russe RETURNING

The Monte Carlo Russe whose recent run at the Auditorium Theatre exceeded all financial records made in the last three years of Chicago's Theatrical history, is scheduled to return for another engagement of one week at the same theatre beginning Saturday afternoon, April 14th.

During the week, the company promises to repeat the most successful ballets of earlier visits and add five more from their extensive repertoire, one of which is the new American Ballet, based on the building of the first transcontinental railroad. The libretto is by the Pulitzer prize poet, Archibald MacLeish, who calls it a "ballet of human labor."

The drama and action are typically American, showing the camp followers of the working crews, including the usual gamblers, missionaries, soldiers, laborers, Mormons, Mexicans, and millionaires, who in the famous ceremony of the Golden Spike celebrated its completion was nation wide, 220 cannon shots were fired from Fort Hill in San Francisco, fire bells tolled in Sacramento, Omaha and Chicago paraded en masse, and at Trinity church, New York a special service was given by the choir and chimes.

The ballet action has been adapted

ROCK RIVER ROD & GUN CLUB WAS FORMED SUNDAY

State Fish Hatchery in this Section Sought by Organization

The Rock River Valley Rod & Gun club was formed Sunday afternoon at a meeting of enthusiastic anglers and hunters held at the offices of Klein & Heckman on North Galena avenue. Guy H. Merriman was elected president of the organization and Donald Ortigien, secretary and treasurer.

The meeting was attended by a delegation from the Green River Rod & Gun club of Amboy. Several of the petitions asking for the location of a state fish hatchery in this vicinity were returned and this morning Conservation Inspector Charles Duis went to Springfield to present them to Director Thompson of the Conservation department.

A site at the Pines state park has been favored for the location of a large state hatchery. A spring fed basin in Pine creek at the state owned park has been inspected and passed upon as being desirable for the location of a hatchery. The fact that a civilian conservation camp is located at the park at present, which would furnish labor for the building of the hatchery led to the favorable action on this proposed site. The Franklin creek site and another at the Dixon state hospital grounds was also under consideration.

Plan Other Clubs

It is proposed to form similar organizations throughout this section of Rock river valley for the purpose of propagation and conservation of fish native to these waters and to guard against illegal fishing. It is expected that the organization will be perfected to cover Rock river and all of its tributaries in Lee and Ogle counties. Members from each unit would then be sworn in to serve as special officers cooperating with the State Conservation Inspector in the enforcement of the fish and game laws.

The following committees were chosen to serve for the ensuing year:

Conservation legislation—Charles F. Duis, Charles Heckman, Louis Kiel, I. B. Hoefer, George N. Crawford.

Membership and publicity—A. L. Wilson, E. L. Fulmer, Arthur Burmeister, James Ketchin, Sr., Roy E. Barron, Albert Haueuer.

Entertainment—R. L. Zarger, O. Heckman, A. L. Wilson, Dement Schuler, I. B. Hoefer, Frank J. Tyne.

Another meeting will be held on Friday evening of this week at 7:30 at which time a report from Conservation Inspector Charles Duis will be presented. At the close of the business session, a social time will be enjoyed and any who are interested in the program are invited to be present.

ONE NEWCOMER AN ASPIRANT FOR DAVIS CUP

Lester Stoefer Is One of Five Invited to Spring Trials

New York, April 2—(AP)—Lester Stoefer, big Californian who carried on a highly successful winter season tennis campaign, with the avowed intention of winning a place on the Davis Cup team, is the only newcomer to the international competition listed among the first five players invited to compete for the 1934 team.

Stoefer, Frank X. Shields, the country's top-ranking player, Wilmer Allison, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., and George M. Lott have been asked to report to Captain R. Norris Williams at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, May 14. Others may be added if they show up well enough in the early spring tournament, among them Cliff Sutter of New Orleans, and Frank Parker, Lawrenceville schoolboy.

John Van Ryan, who has teamed with Allison to form a strong doubles combination on past Davis Cup teams was invited to join the group for trials but declined because of business.

Stoefer may cut a large figure in the selection of the team which is to sail for England in June. During the last year he has reached the semi-finals at Wimbledon and in the American national championships and has continued to improve during the winter, winning the national indoor title and recently capturing the Atlanta Invitational tourney after a great semi-final battle with Lott.

THREE GUESSES

BILLION DOLLAR FINANCING DUE BY MORGENTHAU

U. S. Treasury Seeking Money to Retire Liberty Bonds

Washington, April 2 —(AP)—Springtime brings a billion dollar financing job to the Treasury. Secretary Morgenthau, back today from an Easter vacation, studied plans made by expert assistants for retiring on April 15 a billion dollars worth of fourth Liberty loan bonds which have been called.

What his advisors recommended was kept secret, but recently slackened spending made it doubtful that the Treasury would seek to increase its present huge cash balance. Nor was there a hint of any but orthodox borrowing methods.

Excluding the $2,810,000,000 profit on dollar revaluation, the Treasury still has more than $2,000,000,000 of ready cash.

Further, its action in holding the March financing strictly to an exchange of $460,000,000 in maturities gave evidence of no great need for additional funds in the immediate future.

On the basis of recovery spending in February and March, the $2,000,000,000 cash balance would easily provide for April, May and June spending.

Not Up To Estimate

Administration leaders foresee a rapid advance in public works spending as the weather improves. But they concede that with the $2,900,000,000 spent for recovery in nine months of the fiscal year, the budget estimate of more than $7,000,000,000 for these purposes will not be reached by June 30.

These considerations made some officials consider it unwise to borrow in excess of the April maturity and needlessly increase interest costs on the public debt.

Another factor in the borrowing program is the extreme cheapness of money obtained in 90-day bills which are old to highest bidders. On the last issue, only 0.08 per cent was paid for a three-month loan of $50,000,000 and only 0.19 for a six-month loan of the same amount.

With such cheap money available for sudden requirements, some Treasury experts believe the path of government has turned away from a major long-term borrowing.

The City of Caracas

Founded in 1567 by Don Diego de Losada, a Spanish captain, who gave the site the name of Santiago de Leon, which is still to be found in modern public documents, Caracas is a city of some 110,000 inhabitants. Although situated within ten degrees of the equator, its high altitude gives it a climate of perpetual spring, with pale blue skies almost always unclouded and the temperature seldom rising above 80 degrees. Here in this mountain capital, Bolivar, Venezuela's liberator, was born, and the city still retains much of the atmosphere of old colonial Spain.

River Nile's Outlets

The Blue and the White Nile join at Khartoum, in the Sudan, thence the White Nile flows north until a little beyond Cairo, where the stream splits into two branches, the Rosetta and the Damietta, forming the Delta. In ancient days there were seven outlets of the Nile into the sea, but five seem to have dried up.

SCIENCE WONDER STORIES

Real Camphor Made By Science

Science marks up new victories each year in making synthetic products. Take camphor, for instance. Camphor in its natural form is the crystallized and volatilized sap of a tree, originally procurable from China and the islands nearby. It used to be not uncommon for a family of 2,000 Chinese to hold ownership equity in one camphor tree. Most of the natural camphor now comes from Japan.

Pharmacists use it for over thirty preparations, it keeps out moths and it is a general household remedy. But the largest amount is used as an indispensable raw material in the pyroxylin plastic industry where cellulose is the basis for those useful plastics that are seen as toilet articles, toothbrush handles and the like, as well as for photographic film.

The World War was really what made it necessary for the chemists to work hard at the problem of camphor and they succeeded in duplicating the natural product. The chemical camphor is not really synthetic, but starts with a complex organic structure which is rearranged and changed to form the camphor. There is one plant in New Jersey that could, if necessary, take care of a considerable part of the nation's camphor needs.

Polo Man Caught in Slide of Rock

(Telegraph Special Service)

Polo, April 2 — Jacob Irvin of this city, employed in the township stone quarry, two miles southwest of Polo, was the victim of serious injuries Saturday morning at 11:30.

He with several other men were at work in the quarry, when a slide of earth and rock from a high bank partially buried him.

The other workmen rushed to his rescue and succeeded in digging him out and rushed him to a physician's office at Polo. He was given temporary medical attention and was then removed to the St. Francis hospital at Freeport. Mr. Irvin was reported to have had his left leg fractured and crushed, and he sustained other cuts about the head and was generally bruised about the body.

Emblem of Longevity

The stork pattern, which is so frequently seen woven into Chinese rugs, is the emblem of longevity. A black stork in the design of a rug is particularly significant, for in ancient days it was believed that storks turned black after they became 1,000 or 2,000 years old.

He Believed in Chess

Because he believed that chess had helped him at the beginning of his career, Col. Sir William Thomas Depree, Bart., a former mayor of Portsmouth, England, left $7,400 for the encouragement of chess among boys.

Modern Psychology

Psychology today differs from that of a generation ago in that we look more closely at mental life and find it a good deal less simple than we thought.

NORRIS' ELECTION PLAN WOULD KEEP DEMOCRAT IN W. H.

Proposed Abolition of Electoral College Will be Issue

Washington, April 2 —(AP)—Republican leaders are eyeing as a possible November campaign issue the Roosevelt-approved Lea-Norris constitutional amendment to change the method of electing a President.

Arguments for and against the proposal may be shouted in every state before the year is out. Campaign issues are pretty scarce.

G. O. P. chieftains on Capitol Hill hope the amendment will be adopted soon by the House, but fail to get Senate approval. This would enhance it as a talking point in the congressional elections.

They claim it would give the southern states too heavy a voice and thus tend to keep a Democratic President in office. Representative Lea (D. Cal.) and Senator Norris (R. Neb.) proposed to abolish the existing electoral system under which a presidential candidate who receives a majority of the popular votes in any state gets all the electoral votes of that state.

On State Basis
The new idea would be to divide the 531 electoral votes of the nation in exact proportion to the popular vote. The division, however, would not be on a nation-wide, but a state basis.

"Such a system," said Representative Martin of Massachusetts, one of the House Republican leaders, "would give the southern Democratic states perpetual control of the presidency."

"In New York for instance, a man who now carries that state gets all of its 47 electoral votes. If the unit rule ceased to prevail, New York, being really a two-party state, might give 23 electoral votes to one man and 24 to the other."

"Mississippi would come along and give 8 of its 9 electoral votes, at least, to one man. The other southern states would do the same."

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands
St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, was once called the Gibraltar of America and now holds military interest, as it virtually commands one sea approach to the Panama canal. St. Thomas is the home of the bay rum industry, but the trees grow on a neighboring island. Here the work of coaling steamers is done by women, each carrying a basket of coal slily balanced upon her head.

After Insull Fled Athens Apartment

A scene in a real Greek comedy—or tragedy, depending on how you look at it—is shown here as police, who had been guarding the front door of Samuel Insull's modest Athens apartment house, gathered excitedly around after learning that the former Chicago utilities magnate had fled from another exit. Insull, wanted by the United States on charges of using the mails to defraud, escaped on a freighter.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

INVISIBLE TAXES

(By Ezekiel Scroggins)

We often hear the argument put forth that only property owners pay taxes and this has been the hue and cry of tax agitators since the mind runneth not to the contrary.

It is my purpose in this article to bring to the reader a few concrete facts and examples of our invisible taxing system to show that every human being who spends money pays taxes and in some cases where the income is large and where it is used up as earned that such persons pay more tax than the property owner does in many cases, and does not know it.

He orders a bill of groceries from the corner store, the bill amounts to five dollars (in addition to the sales tax). He has paid the grocery direct tax in the profit above cost, so the merchant does not pay the tax he adds it to each and everyone's bill. He collects it on the installment plan and gets credit for paying it over to the tax collector. This holds good on every purchase a person makes.

whether it be a suit of clothes, pair of shoes, a load of coal or the milk bill. Included in the price that it paid is the other fellow's direct taxes.

The portion that a person pays in taxes who receives $30 per week filled a sheet of one of the leading newspapers, some months ago. This person who never sees a tax collector in person, pays $10 out of $30, every week through this invisible taxing system. So if there were no taxes added upon everything purchased, people earning $30 per week, would have $10 more in their pocketbooks each Saturday, and at the end of the year they would have $520 that has been taken from them by the unseen hand of the tax collector. The railroads pay heavy taxes and they pass it on in higher freight rates and groceries are higher at the corner store because of taxes.

When people rent a place to live in whether it is a house, a room, or a flat, included in the price they pay is the landlord's direct taxes. The poor man, the low-salaried man, pays taxes just as sure as the property owner or the Wall Street millionaire, and the worst of it is—he pays a greater portion of his income in taxes than the rich man does. Ten years ago every worker worked one day each week for his taxes (and did not know it) now he works two days per week for taxes. Every time a reader of this article sees an inspector, a county or state or federal officer, a mailman, or a street repairman, he must recognize them as part of the 3,500,000 public officeholders that are on each and everyone's payroll to the tune of $5,752,000,000 per year. We enjoy the different kinds of public services that has group up around what it called our complex civilization, but every year we are paying a great portion of our salaries, income, etc., to meet this yearly payroll, and every time we vote to raise salaries, vote for a new park, a new bridge or any other fine-sounding scheme to spend public money, we are adding that much more to our unseen taxes. These public programs to relieve unemployment place a barrel of flour and a barrel of pork in taxes upon the back, in order to place a loaf of bread and pound of pork in the hand.

E. Roland Harriman, addressing a league in New York that has been trying to do something about the terrific rise in the cost of government, said "We get in the morning in our home, whether it be in a house or a hall bedroom, and the first one to greet us in the tax collector, for whatever the cost of such sleeping place may be included the taxes. We put on our clothing and the tax collector hands them to us, for every article that we don has borne its tax. We have our breakfast of orange juice, toast and coffee. Perhaps you noticed some one had sipped the orange juice and coffee and taken a bite of toast, they have, the tax collector. He shadows us the whole day through—takes part of our car fare, adds to phone calls, light and gas bills. Continually we lay out money for the benefit of local, state and federal government, that has failed to economize, like the rest of us have had to in our own business and private affairs."

I have attempted in these few lines to show in a general way how taxes are passed on to the consumer, through this invisible taxing system. In the next article an attempt will be made to show up the direct system as it prevails in Illinois—with some of its defects.

The Divining Rod

Despite modern science and radio detecting machines, core-drills and other means of locating gold, the immeasurably ancient divining rod still holds its own and is relied on implicitly by many people. And, strange and incredible as it may seem, even hard-headed scientists who have carefully studied the divining rod have been forced to admit that there are certain mysterious and inexplicable features of the device or of its users.

Does Your Newspaper Boy Meet These N. B. A. Standards of Service?

Standards of Service?

As a member of The Newspaper Boys of America, every regular carrier-salesman employed by this paper is pledged upon his honor to do his level best, in meeting these 12 Standards of Service and Conduct set up by the N. B. A.

1. Keep neat and clean—and SMILE.
2. Arrive on time—all the time.
3. Be courteous to everybody.
4. Have an above-average school record.
5. Own a growing savings account.
6. Keep his route list and map up-to-date.
7. Deliver your newspapers efficiently.
8. Collect all accounts in full, regularly.
9. Report all new families or non-subscribers.
10. Learn the right way to sell your newspaper.
11. Build up his route by adding new subscribers.
12. Be alert and ambitious to succeed in life.

Is your carrier living up to his pledge? Is he prompt in delivering your paper and business-like when he collects? Does he keep clean and neat, and greet you with a smile? Is he alert, thrifty and ambitious? Is he making good grades in school? Does he keep his paper records correctly?

If he is doing his best to meet these tests, give him a word of praise, and encourage him to keep up the good work. Ask him how many of the N. B. A. Junior Merit Seals he has won, and how soon he will be made a Senior member of the N. B. A.

DIXON BOWLER IN ABE PLAY PLACES IN THE SINGLES

Ed Worley Was Member of Eclipse Team from Prophetstown

The Eclipse Lawn Mower Co.
bowling team returned home Saturday after having rolled in the
A. B. C. Tournament at Peoria.
The team will probably receive a small share of prize money for their series of 2730. After getting away to a bad start with 784, the team came back, strong finishing with 908 and 1038.

Marshall Demey and Edward Worley, bowled 596-577 respectively to qualify for money in the doubles event with 1173. They encountered trouble the first game getting 354, then rolled two games over the 400 mark with 406 and 413.

Worley was the only one to place in the singles division, bowling games of 182-187-221 totaling 590, which will also rate winnings.

Leaders Seem Safe

Peoria, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—First place berths in the American Bowling Congress stood like the rock of Gibraltar under the attack of the so-called "big shots" of the game last week-end.

With the most feared invaders come, gone and conquered, the present leaders can have their respective sights of relief—that is if they are so old fashioned they don't believe in dark horses, upsets and things.

Fred Pfeffer of Omaha took fourth place in the singles with a total of 695.

Carl Meyer, Hammond, Ind., and George Lasher, Detroit, hit 682 and were on the board for half an hour before being shoved off by the newcomer.

In the all-events, Adam Plunge, Chicago, took ninth place with a total of 1880, and Milo Weisner of Chicago, was tenth with 1889.

English Bats Are Useful

English bats are useful and should never be destroyed; for over half the year they are doing their part in ridding the countryside of insects, especially destroying those such as mosquitoes which are out and about when it is dark. For the remainder of the year they are in a state of hibernation in some cranny of an old building or similar place, and a sheltered hole in an old tree will often harbor a large colony.

One Year Ago Today—Gallant
Sir, owned by Norman W. Church, won the $25,000 added Agua Caliente handicap.

Five Years Ago Today—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, went on record as classing George Godfrey, colored fighter as the leading heavyweight of the day.

Ten Years Ago Today—Johnny Weismuller of the Illinois A. C. broke the 100-yard free style swim mark. His time was 53 4-5 seconds.

Weight of Coins

There is a definite weight for every coin turned out—and even in the case of pennies, each eleventh dix is weighed by hand, on balances so fine that they record a pencil mark on a piece of paper. A variation of one grain in weight is permitted in pennies.

Farley Still Has Interest in Ring Game

Postmaster General's Prediction is Game
Will Come Back

New York, Apr. 2.—(AP)—The Postmaster General of the United States, James A. Farley, is just a trifle homesick for the whimsies, the multi-sided ramifications of the prize fight business.

Thirteen months ago today he resigned his post as Chairman of the New York State Athletic Council, one of the most powerful of boxing's ruling bodies, to take his place in the cabinet of President Roosevelt.

"And I wouldn't have missed it for anything," he said today as he leaned back at his desk at the National Democratic headquarters, locked his fingers behind his head, and looked back through the first year of the new deal, into the days when Tunney and Dempsey and Rickard were kings and he ruled them all.

"We had a lot of fun and a lot of laughs. Boxing was a tremendous game then, jammed with color and great personalities. It will come back, eventually, as everything will come back. Today's slump in boxing will be eliminated when the slump in all business has been eliminated. What boxing needs most of all right now is a colorful heavyweight champion, a fellow like Dempsey. The game may have found him in Max Baer."

There was a day when the same papers that now cross their front pages with streamers on the air mail situation, in which he is a leading figure, once filled that same space with heavy type about the first Tunney-Dempsey fight negotiations, in which Farley's name also bulked large. It was his championing of the cause of Harry Wills as a title contender, that forced Tex Rickard to take his first "Battle of the Century" to Philadelphia in 1926.

"How times have changed," grim-ed the six-foot-two-inch cabinet member who first gained fame as the gallant first baseman of the Haverstraw (N. Y.) Independents.

Keen Interest

"I sat all alone in a hotel room in Washington when Prima Carnera and Tommy Loughran fought for the heavyweight title in Miami, listening to the bout over the radio.
I couldn't help thinking about nights around the ringside in New York. I get pretty lonesome for boxing. I'll never lose interest in the game. [I'd go every week if I could.]

He reads the sport pages avidly, keeps in touch with all the sport writers who used to cross-examine him at the commission until he finally would seek safety in an expression Washington reporters now know well:

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

He laughs deeply at that.
"The good old bridge," he says,
"it's still right there waiting to be dragged out every time I get in a tough spot."

He has a circle around June 14 on his calendar, the night Carnera and Baer fight for the heavyweight title in New York.

"There will be no speaking engagements made for that night," he said.

Tell of Interest

They tell one story of Farley and his interest in boxing that completes the picture perfectly. It was the night Roosevelt's nomination seemed to hang in the balance at Chicago. The convention hall was in an uproar. In the press benches writers pounded their typewriters frantically. Some of the top men had just arrived from the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, and its disputed decision, in New York.

Into the hall strode Farley, the President-maker, and the uproar died. Perspiring, worried looking, he shouldered his way toward the press seats. The writers waited breathlessly. The whisper raced around.

"Here's Farley. Something big's happened."

He finally reached the side of a famous sports writer, doubling in brass. He leaned down, whispered hoarsely:

"Tell me, Damon. Did Sharkey really win that fight?"

"In" and "On" the Street

The explanation of the expression "lives in a street" instead of "lives on a street," is that street includes not only the roadway and sidewalks, but also the bordering dwellings and business houses.
Sometimes the distinction indicates a difference in the street, the intention being to distinguish the character, as "his office is in Wall Street," but "the lives on Washington street."

Healo time is here. Ask any druggist about the merits of this wonderful foot powder.

EASTERN TEAMS HOLD POWER IN AMERICAN LOOP

Senators and Yankees
Likely to Fight it
Out for Pennant

(The accompanying review of the American League pennant prospects is the eighteenth and last of an Associated Press series of baseball stories, based on first-hand study of the clubs.)

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Despite the wholesale dispersal sale conducted by Mr. Cornelius Mc-Gillivray, serving the combined purpose of pulling his own Athletics out of the red and three others out of the ruck, the balance of power in the American League remains in the east.

The circuit is feeling the effects of perhaps the biggest player shakeup in its history, all calculated to reduce the yawning gap between the first two or three clubs and the rest of the league, but the chief question remains: who is going to stop the champion Senators or the powerful Yankees?

For the first time in nearly a decade, the Athletics are not by any stretch of imagination a pennant factor, for the simple reason that no amount of shuffling by Jimmie Fox and Co. will offset the absence of a major league pitching staff. Ex-Mackmen have furnished the foundation for the reconstruction of the Boston Red Sox, the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers, but it remains to be seen just how serious a championship challenger any one of these outfits will become.

Talent Scattered

The pitching of Grove and Wal-berg, the right arm of Earnshaw and the slugging of Al Simmons, as well as the spectacular back-stopping of Mickey Cochrane are factors calculated to improve the performances of any club but, in such scattered array, they do not come under the heading of pennant insurance. All of them combined could not stop Pepper Martin in the world series of 1931.

Granting the league's better balance as a whole, with no club in the push-over category, the fact remains that the Senators have the same outfit that topped the 1933 standing by seven full games and the runner-up New York Yankees look vastly improved, in personnel as well as morale. The champions have the balance and pitching, providing Whitehill and Crowder can continue their 1933 form. The Yankees have more drive and sustained power, a revamped infield and, they hope, the assurance of pitching comebacks
by Red Ruffing and Danny Mac-Fayden.

YANKIES REAL THREAT

If New York's pitching is only 75 per cent as effective as that of Washington, the preponderance of batting power in the warlocks of Gehrige, Ruth, Lazzeri, Chapman, Dickey and the sensational new shortstop, Red Rolfe, figures to give the Yankees at least an even chance of overthrowing the champions. Ruth gives every indication of making his farewell year of duty something to remember him by.

Washington's only major change in the team that was outplayed by the Giants in the world series is the replacement of Goose Goslin by Jonathan Stone in right field.
The Senators have a prospective star in Cecil Travis, now under-studying the veteran Ossie Bluege at third.

Cleveland's pitching staff alone,
one of the best in either league, entitles the Indians to join consideration with the Tigers and Red Sox in figuring the other first division contenders. Hildebrand, Pearson, Hudlin, Lloyd Brown and Harder give Cleveland an extraordinary staff, apart from whatever help they may get from their erstwhile pitching ace, Wesley Ferrell. The Indians will present a youthful and somewhat inexperienced infield but their big hitters, Averill, Vosmik and Porter, will enjoy the benefit of firing at the short fences of their old stadium grounds.

Detroit Lacks Power

Cochran's fiery leadership of the Tigers, coupled with his handling of a first-rate curving corps, lifts Detroit to the status of a contender for the first time in years but the club has weaknesses in the infield and none too much batting punch.

The rejuvenated Red Sox depend on their expensive pitching reinforcements, headed by Grove, to offset a questionable infield defense and doubtful hitting. Five southpaws and three ex-Yankee right handers, Rhodes, Pipiras and Johnson, may lift the club out of the second division.

The White Sox are distinctly a "dark horse" for the reason that no one can predict what may develop from some pitching arms as those of Earnshaw, Ted Lyons and Sam Jones. If all three stage comebacks, the Chicago club will be a distinct factor, fortified as it appears by the bats of Simmons, Haas, Dykes and a slugging newcomer, Zeke Bonura, at first base.

This leaves Rogers Hornsby's Browns, with only a few grade-A players aside from a good pitching staff, and Connie Mack's Athletics, well equipped everywhere except in the box, to fight it out in the lower regions.

PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when, due to circumstances beyond his control, he flees from Key West to Ha-vanna with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves.

Beau has killed a man and stolen a famous string of pearls at the Florida home of wealthy JIM FIELD. Pablito does not know this or that he himself is accused of the crime. Pablito loves Field's daughter, ES-TELLA, and she loves him.
MARCIA TREADWAY, known as Pablito's innocent but fears

In Havana Pablito tries to find
NORRIS NOYES who befriended fail.

Beau, impressed by Pablito's natural ability as a boxer, arranges several profitable matches for him. They also open a gym-fruitless.

Three years pass and then, on

CHAPTER XXVIII
PABLITO said suddenly, "You would never believe how often I've thought about our talking together that night. I've never forgotten about it. I never will!"

"Oh—" Estelle murmured softly.
warmly. It was odd, she thought, that he seemed to have no idea how much she really liked him.
She had dreamed of meeting him again some day. There had never been anyone else whom she liked so much.

"Do you think I should go back and tell them I didn't kill Jeffries," Pablito asked.

"No!" she said, instantly aghast.
"Oh, no!"

"I'd be willing to do it if you said so."

"No!" she repeated. She added,
"I'm afraid you wouldn't even have a chance."

"Perhaps not," he agreed heavily.
He and Beau were suitable comrades. Beau who had promised to "protect" him!

"My life is in your hands," he said, looking down at those ungloved, slender white hands. He meant that he would do anything she wanted him to but Estelle misunderstood.

"You are perfectly safe," she assured him eagerly. "I'll never tell anyone of having met you, Pablito. Never!"

She glanced up at him then and for a long moment they looked into one another's eyes.

"I'd die for you or live for you,"
he said abruptly. "You can remember that—not, I suppose, that it will mean much. But I would do either."

HE still cared, she realized, her heart quickening.

"If I could only see you once in a while," he said next, "it would mean everything to me!"

"I don't see why not—" she faltered, again looking up at him.
"I'm lonely," she added,

NATIONAL FOOT HEALTH WEEK IS BEING OBSERVED

Scientists Say April Is Worst Month for Foot Troubles

Special attention is to be given the feet of the nation this week through the observance of National Foot Health Week, by foot specialists, and shoe merchants the country over.

Medical science has shown that April is the one month in all the year when foot ailments develop rapidly. Sedentary life during the winter, a minimum of sunshine with its health-giving rays, the wearing of heavy shoes, and wearing rubbers, are all responsible for the weakness of the feet in the Spring of the year.

National Foot Health Week is for the purpose of bringing foot consciousness to every man, woman and child, in order that they will give their feet more consideration, professional attention, and care at this time of year when foot ailments so often become serious.

57 Ailments

One of the country's greatest exponents of scientific shoe fitting has charted over 57 different ailments which can be relieved by proper shoes, correctly fitted. His list includes such common foot troubles as ingrown toenails, hammer toes, corns, bunions, callouses, various forms of weak arch, excessive perspiration, burning feet, cold feet, swollen ankles, and in addition, bodily ailments such as dizziness, fatigue, poor circulation, neuritis, nervous indigestion and others.

Feet are neglected more than most any other part of the body, yet sound feet are the first prerequisite to good physical condition. The person who suffers with his feet, is miserable indeed. Doctor's reports that 90 per cent of all babies have perfect feet, while 90 per cent of all adults have foot troubles of one kind or another.

Foot Health Week is the first Spring check-up of foot conditions, through the help of the foot specialists and shoe fitters. Many ailments, if noticed in time can be avoided, and future sufferings eliminated by wearing correct shoes properly fitted, thus preserving the very foundation of bodily health.

Some Recommendations

Some recommendations for better foot health among adults include:

Provide the best type of shoes for the foot during working hours.

Avoid high heels for work, standing or walking.

Discard shoes which are uncomfortable.

Do not overtax the foot during any abnormal physical condition.

Bathe feet daily in warm water and a good grade of soap.

Buy shoes for comfort as well as for looks.

Have feet examined every six months.

Walking is the best exercise for the foot when done in proper shoes.

Protect shoes and feet from damp weather.

Prevent flat feet and build strong arches by walking with toes pointed straight ahead.

Be sure stockings are long enough for the feet.

Change shoes at least twice daily, because of secreted impurities from the feet.

Every person who values his or her health should take time for a check-up of the feet and shoes during Foot Health Week.

Year Old Pup Decorated for Heroism

She may not be a blue ribbon winner, but little Chingy, year-old pup became one of the aristocrats of New York's dogdom when, as shown here, she was presented a bronze medal for heroism by Mrs. J. D. Prince, president of the Women's League for Animals, Inc., while an attendant looked on. Chingy, whose barks enabled many tenants to escape from a burning East Side tenement, was found after the fire wandering the streets with a broken leg.

Living Our Everyday Lives

WHITHER, WORLD?
(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton.)

The world is angry, agitated, upset, awry. Its mood is violent, ruthless, sinister. Mobs run riot, guns roar, and one explosion follows another, as if civilization were about to blow up.

What does the world really want? What is it aiming at? What kind of spirit is stirring in this strange, stupendous, tangled time? Where are we going? What are we seeking? Does anybody know?

In one of his latest plays Bernard Shaw said that for fifty years he had been telling the world what it ought to do. The world, he said, paid no attention to his wise advice; and today he is not sure that it would have made any difference if the world had obeyed him.

Most of us are in the same state of mind. The situation is too mixed, too intricate, too confused; we cannot see the way out. The best mind of the race is baffled. The lights are dim and the road dark.

We have many great leaders today, but they are going in different directions. Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini take one path; MacDonald, and Roosevelt take another path. The two paths can never meet.

The world is a house divided against itself. Its old cultural unity is broken, and there seems no way to mend it. There is endless talk of a planned society, but what is it we are planning for?

Two ideas of life, two philosophies of society, are at war. In the old days men sought liberty and fought for it. Today half the world is running away from liberty, as a thing to be afraid of. Not grudgingly but gladly, they surrender their souls to the sway of the mass.

Is the world to be ruled by fraternal good-will or by ruthless force? Does the state exist for man or man for the state? Are we on the eve of a new day, or trembling on the edge of a new Dark Ages? Is Spengler a prophet, or just a pessimist with a glorified gift of gab?

Of old, when the world seemed falling to pieces, a Voice said: "Behold I make all things new!" Only God knows whither the world is going, but we may be sure that it has not slipped out of His hand!

Lightning Called "Lazy"

Lightning on its path to the ground can be called "lazy," for it seeks the path of least electrical resistance. Since most materials used by man in building construction have less resistance than air, lightning commonly prefers to strike a house top and go through it rather than down the air outside. The ability of high skyscrapers to act as super lightning rods arises from their steel girder construction, which eventually enters the ground and through which the lightning passes harmlessly.

Fossilized America

Not excluding the vast bone deposits of giant prehistoric animals in Argentina, Bolivia and Mongolia, the United States contains today more fossilized remains of dinosaurs than any other country in the world.

"STOP EROSION" CAMPAIGN NOW ON IN 6 STATES

Work Starts to Prevent Rich Farm Lands Going to Sea

Des Moines, April 2—(AP)—To prevent rich farm lands from going down to sea, youthful conservation corps workers will fight the forces of nature this spring in the Mississippi valley.

The fight, officials say, is for the benefit of generations yet unborn. The boys will plant millions of trees and dam small streams in six states to curtail erosion. Conservationists say erosion, in which water carries soil into the Mississippi and thence out to sea, is gradually denuding thousands of acres of farm land.

Planting trees, besides holding the soil in place, lessens the menace of floods. It attacks the menace at its source.

Started in Illinois

Illinois CCC men already have started work, and more than three and one-half million black locusts will be planted in that state this month.

Iowa will plant six million seedlings, mostly in southern Iowa. V. S. Peterson, Iowa erosion technician said today. Foresters working with CCC camps plan extensive soil erosion work in southeastern Minnesota. Five northwest Missouri camps will concentrate on similar projects, and Nebraska erosion directors contemplate a tree planting program.

Build Many Dams

Tree planting will be part of a $300,000 conservation project in Con creek watershed south of Ia Cresce, Wis., by the CCC and the federal erosion service. Eight other CCC companies will concentrate on building dams, but will do some tree planting on privately owned lands.

Iowa's conservationists will construct 30,000 dams on 1,500 farms in the six-month period just begun, Peterson said. These dams will provide erosion and flood control benefits to a half-million acres of farm land, he said.

During the seven-month period first closed, 25,000 dams were constructed to benefit 300,000 acres. The government has a contract with each farmer on whose land trees are planted. It stipulates that title to the trees shall remain with the government.

MORE PERSONAL PROPERTY LISTED STATE'S AIM

Tax Commission Inaugurates Drive to that Purpose

Springfield, Ill., April 2—(AP)—A drive to get more personal property listed on county tax books started today, Scott W. Lucas, Chairman of the State Tax Commission announced.

Assessment supervisors for 13 districts started work assisting town and county officials to inaugurate a uniform system of taxation in all counties, Lucas said. Systems have varied widely in different counties, and an effort will be made to minimize that variance.

"To take the burden of taxation off of real estate is our principal objective," the Chairman stated. "In the past year $5,000,000 of capital stock has been listed by the Commission that has never been taxed before."

By increasing the quantity of personal property on the tax books, a lowering of real estate tax burden may be effected, Lucas said.

The supervisors have been given a course of instruction by the Commission on the types and classes of personal property that the Commission wishes listed, and uniform rules have been drawn up. The Commission hopes to complete the work in the next two months.

Turtle Needs No Water

One usually thinks of turtles in relation to water, but there is a species, the desert tortoise, that lives in the hot desert regions of southern California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and western Mexico, that probably rarely if ever sees any water. Despite the arid nature of its habitat and the fact that it probably takes little or no water into its system excepting through the green grass and succulent plants on which it feeds, an individual in danger of capture will sometimes crawl into its shell so tightly as to squeeze out half a pint of clear water. A 12-pound desert tortoise is considered a good size.

FAMOUS HORSE-WOMAN, MOTHER OF POLO, DEAD

Mrs. Thos. Hitchcock, 67, Passed Away from Injuries

Aiken, S. C., Apr. 2—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, the "mother of American polo," is dead.

Injuries suffered by the 67-year-old sportswoman Dec. 26 in a riding accident resulted in her death at the Hitchcock home here yesterday.

Mr. Hitchcock and their two sons Tommy and Frank, who attained fame on the polo field under her tutelage, were with her as were their daughters, Mrs. J. Averill Clark and Mrs. Julian Peabody, both of New York.

Widely Known

As the dashing Louise Eustis, she was widely known as a horsewoman when she married Thomas Hitchcock, Westbury, L. I., sportsman in 1891.

When her sons grew large enough to sit astride a horse, she gave them mounts and taught them the hard-riding and fearlessness that later characterized their play on the polo field.

Other youngsters who came under her tutelage here and at Westbury, where the Hitchcock's also maintain a home, included Devereux Milburn, Louis Stoddard, Jr., J. Watson Webb, F. Skiddy von Stade, James P. Mills, James C. Rathbone, Stewart Iglehart, E. T. Gerry, Jr., Michael G. Phlips and others who made American polo history.

Names for U. S. Boats

The river gunboats which protect our interests along the Yangtze river in China, are named after our island possessions, such as the U. S. S. Guam. The mine sweepers are all named after birds and there is a good number of them, the U. S. S. Bobolink being one. The oil tankers derive their names from the rivers which flow through states in which oil is produced. Ships like the U. S. S. Medusa are named after mythical persons or places. Indian tribe names are used in naming our ocean tugs—U. S. S. Sonoma. The U. S. S. Nitro is the name of an ammunition ship and our hospital ship is called the U. S. S. Relief.

Impatience?
No. It's jangled nerves

Are you the kind of wide-awake, "on-your-toes" person who hates to be kept waiting?
Then you should be doubly careful about jangled nerves.
If you find yourself nervously cracking your newspaper—drumming your fingers on the table—jumping at unexpected noises—then watch your nerves.
Get enough sleep—fresh air—recreation. And make Camels your cigarette.
For you can smoke as many Camels as you want. Their costlier tobaccos never jangle your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS
